Profile/Objective

A highly self-motivated deck cadet which aspires to become official.

During the school I did some stages which allowed me to get closer to the "ship world" and made me more enthusiastic of the career I decided to begin. While I was attending for a boarding I worked as a barman and I could get in touch with people and improve myself, my self-esteem and my relation with people I didn't know also of different places, genders and nationality.

In my adolescence I used to do my summer holidays on board of my father's sailing boat, so I could learn how to sail, how to swim well, how to dive and also how to live in very little spaces.

My love for sports made me become stronger so I can do many hard works without too much effort; it taught me also how to work in team patiently, constantly and with a bigger result.

Also the music taught me how to be a team builder; when I used to play guitar in a band everyone had to be in tune with the other and being focus, being helpful and being careful was the only way to do good music.
